

Confidentiality secured. Permission to share obtained.

From: ANONYMOUS
Sent: Monday, August 17, 2015 4:09 PM
To: Shoni Khangala
Subject: Thank you

Dear Shoni

It takes someone with a big heart and a special personality to be intertwined with disability and allow yourself to be in our shoes, I consider myself blessed to be coached by you.

Thank you for holding my hand every step of the way. You are the wind beneath my wings. God bless you.

Regards

ANONYMOUS

From: ANONYMOUS
Sent: Friday, July 24, 2015 4:07 PM
To: Shoni Khangala

Dear Shoni

After the last session we had two weeks ago, it left me with food for thought and I realized that nobody can tell it better than me. Every pain, hurt, joy, laughter, setback, achievement and all, are my story. It is meant to be challenging of cause and joyful at times because days are different .It's mine, nobody told me it was gonna be easy anyway, so I'm gonna live it like it's golden and tell it as it is. It's my story!

Thanks for listening

Regards
ANONYMOUS

From: ANONYMOUS
Sent: Monday, June 8, 2015 3:45 PM
To: Shoni Khangala
Subject: Re: My 5-minute Showcase Talk at the Professional Speakers Association tonight

Dear Shoni

Thank you for being a pillar to lean on at times when I need one. This really means a lot to me. In the past few days a thought crossed my mind that if I were to describe who you are to me, it wouldn't really make sense to address you as my coach, but you become everyone I need you to be at that particular moment. God bless you and your offspring.

Thank you for being SHONI

Regards

ANONYMOUS

From: ANONYMOUS
Sent: Friday, August 15, 2014 3:20 PM
To: shoni@potentialexponents.com
Subject: Thank You

Hi Shoni,

At times 'thank you' can be used so non-chalantly at the risk of losing its worth. In this case, I hope not, only that it will be understated. My sincerest thank you!

Someone once said, "Words find a resting place" and what I understood that to mean, is that it finds mental fertile ground.

To recap - I heard myself saying "it happened for a good reason" and more importantly I heard you saying "now remember that!" - I most definitely will:)

As you know my reason for accepting your invitation to be coached was two-fold. I also wanted to experience coaching first hand - it can only be essential to be coached as well as it is to coach.

This session was very empowering, thought provoking and overall refreshing.

I left with a life lesson, and that is, if I can make people feel like this then I am the richer.

I certainly will recommend your services and will definitely make use of it myself, in the not-so-distant future.

God Bless you and your family abundantly.

ANONYMOUS